FIRST GOVERNOR TO SIGN FOR THE INCOME TAX

Governor B. B. Comer had the honor of being the first Governor to sign a legislative ratification of the new income tax measure. He was greatly pleased when the House of Representatives of Alabama passed the resolution without a dissenting vote and declared that it was fitting that the State leading the alphabetical roll of States should be the first to go on record for the amendment to the constitution of the United States.

SENATE BUSINESS

(Special from United Press.) Hartford, Aug. 5.—Much of the business before the Senate today was included in the foot of the calendar and the Senate table which were the order of the day for 11 o'clock but most of the business on both were again tabled as they were read off. The Ellard Company resolution was one of these, and the act concerning the importation and exportation of tuberculosis cattle was another as well as the personal and state tax bills.

When the Governor's veto of the bill providing for less than a unanimous vote of the board of pardons was reached the Senate sustained the Governor and rejected the bill with very little debate.

There was a long debate on the commitment of boys between 7 and 16 at state expense to other than state institutions. This affects particularly the new St. John's Industrial school at Essex and has been construed as a reflection on the Connecticut School for Boys at Meriden. The measure was finally passed, the ages having been changed from 9 to 13.

THAW CONFIDENT OF HIS RELEASE

Plans to Live in Pittsburgh and Engage in Literary Work.

TO KNOCK OUT DELUSIONS

(Special from United Press.) Court House, White Plains, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Substantial evidence that Harry Thaw's belief in the practices of Stanford White toward young girls was based on fact and is not, therefore, delusion of a disordered brain, was introduced in the habeas corpus proceedings to-day when James N. Carvalho, a handwriting expert, took the stand.

The state's attorneys have declared that a belief based on fact is not a delusion and therefore Morschauer Thaw's attorney, dealt sledge-hammer blows at the paranoia theory. Thaw's attorney believed that if it was shown that Thaw's belief was based on fact they could secure his liberty and they were enthusiastic when the letters were admitted.

Thaw, confident that he will be released from Matteawan within a week, has made his plans to live in Pittsburgh. In an interview with a United Press representative to-day Thaw said: "I am sure I shall be released when the state's attorneys have declared that a belief based on fact is not a delusion. I will then show them that my belief in these three things was based on fact and not a delusion. I will show them the truth of my belief in White's orgies."

"As soon as I am free I will travel in Europe for a time with my mother and sister. We are all in need of rest. Then we will go to Pittsburgh to live. I shall do literary work. I have already submitted a story to a magazine. I shall have my story published as soon as I am freed."

Thaw has twelve more witnesses to call. In the main, they will be sensational. Justice Mills declared yesterday he wanted to end the case Saturday but Attorney Morschauer doubts if he can finish in time. It is believed however, that Mills will hand down his decision by Thursday of next week as he leaves Friday on his vacation.

When court opened to-day Morschauer continued reading Evelyn's testimony at the murder trial. He proved Thaw believed the White story and that they were, therefore, not delusions.

Morschauer set about early trying to show that Thaw's belief in the orgies were not delusions but were based on facts. Carvalho, the handwriting expert, was the first witness called. He testified that he had seen Thaw's handwriting in the letters which Thaw had written at the first trial. He had read 68 pieces of writing in Thaw's handwriting.

When court opened to-day Morschauer continued reading Evelyn's testimony at the murder trial. He proved Thaw believed the White story and that they were, therefore, not delusions.

Morschauer then took up the "mushroom letter" written by White. Carvalho said Thaw told him the letter was sent to a girl named May. White sent the girl to a hospital and when she was well attempted to work her ruin. The letter was read. It was signed by the handwriting expert, Carvalho said, was White's usual signature. Carvalho then told of the "Sue Parker" letter, which he said had been offered to Thaw by the Parker woman for $5,000. The woman, he said, had been a sworn statement that when she was 17 she had been seduced by a man named White. One Easter Sunday evening, she swore, White lured her to his apartment, "Eagle's Nest," plied her with wine and assumed the name of a woman. Carvalho said, were finally bought from the woman by Thaw's lawyer for $500. Carvalho then read the letters in court as copies of the original. These copies were offered in evidence and Jerome discovered that only six of the letters were there though there should have been 68. Jerome, on cross-examination, attacked the character of the Parker woman and Carvalho claimed that the letters contained any reference to the assault on her. Under re-direct examination, however, Carvalho said the Parker girl's story impressed him as true because of the way she told it. Jerome failed to destroy the foundation of Carvalho's testimony to show that Thaw's alleged "delusions" were not delusions but facts.

Edward Robinson, jailer at the Poughkeepsie Jail, said that he had visited Thaw often at the jail there and they seemed friendly. Morschauer, during the rest of the morning, continued to read the letters. He insisted that the letters were kept in the records of the committee on lunacy which declared Thaw insane.

Clark and Bartlett Favor Minority Bill

(Special from United Press.) Hartford, Aug. 5.—It is understood that Representatives Clark and Bartlett of Bridgeport are both in favor of the minority bill, and will vote in favor of the minority bill.

IS BURIED ON DAY SET FOR WEDDING

Last Thursday, just three days before she was to be married, Elizabeth Lowery of Brooklyn, N. Y., died in that city and was buried on the day that had been set for the wedding. According to friends of the young woman, her death was caused by the fact that she was married to Edwin C. Sherwood of Bridgeport. A careful search of the directory and inquiries at the post office failed to reveal anyone of that name residing in this city.

AFTER VIOLATORS OF MARINE LAWS

Acting under instructions from Washington, Collector of Customs J. Rice Winchell of New Haven, has chartered the boat "Try-On" for six days to cruise the waters along the sound from New London to the New York state line to see that all private yachts and motor boats are properly supplied with equipment as prescribed by the United States laws governing shipping.

The boat will be assigned to the three districts covering Bridgeport, New Haven and New London and each district will have the use of the boat an equal part of the time for which it has been chartered. Complaints to the authorities in numerous instances this year of having met with boats which were not properly equipped with lights. The other night the captain of one ship nearly collided with a motor boat which was carrying its port and starboard lights reversed, so it is probable that the government boat will shortly be seen nosing around the Bridgeport harbor.

A good many summer gowns of princess build are being trimmed to simulate two-piece gowns—gowns and heavy coats.

NO CHANGE OF METHOD

Senator Turns Down Amendment Changing Plan of Electing Board of Education Members.

(Special from United Press.) Hartford, Aug. 5.—The committee on Cities and Boroughs reported unfavorably in the Senate today on the bill amending the Bridgeport charter concerning the manner of electing members of the Board of Education. The report of the committee was accepted.

UTLEY TESTIFIES IN SUTTON CASE

Lieutenant's Story in Main Tattles With Those of Fellow Officers

FIGHT WITH ADAMS RETOLD

(Special from United Press.) Annapolis, Aug. 5.—Telling the story of the fight between Lieutenant Harold Utley and the late Lieutenant James N. Sutton's death, sitting across the table at Mrs. Sutton who again had to hear the details of how "Jimmie" had been mercilessly beaten just before his death and to listen to another fellow officer say that they do not want the government to attempt to conciliate the differences between them. Both sides declare that the great labor strike is now over and by themselves inasmuch as a basis of permanent peace can be reached in no other way.

The Employers' Association to-day issued a statement to the effect that its chief complaint of the traders unions was "their persistent violation of agreements." The unions replied by declaring that the Employers "have conspired to effect a gradual curtailment of wages in every class of labor."

While there has yet been no violence serious trouble is expected when food supplies run short. The union bakers say that they will have a shortage of bread before the end of the week while the butchers and provision men who have joined the strike say there are no shortages of their kind.

There was a craning of necks as Lieutenant Utley entered the courtroom and was informed that he must testify with Adams. Utley, according to the testimony of the late Lieutenant Adams, was the one of the material witnesses. Mrs. Sutton and Mrs. Parker will both go on the stand before the court adjourns and will be allowed unlimited range in their testimony which otherwise would be limited.

In his earlier portion Utley's testimony corroborated that his brother-in-law, Adams, was the one who drove the fatal auto drive from Carvel Hall on the night of October 12, 1907. He and Adams, he testified, were at the bar of the hotel at Sutton. Sutton asked them to have a drink of whiskey but they refused. Together they went to the room where Adams and Sutton, the witness said, they later started for the camp. He recalled a dispute between Adams and Sutton and that Adams had thrown the machine to fight. He advised a postponement.

Considerable time was consumed in reading the stenographic report of the last day of the hearing before its sudden adjournment. Lieutenant Utley, Adams and Adams' attorneys, who were allowed unlimited range in their testimony which otherwise would be limited.

NOT TO BLAME FOR SLAUGHTERING HOGS

Court Finds Ordinance Prohibiting Killing Within City Limits Defective.

Julius Fleischer, who conducts a meat market on Cherry street in the West End, was charged in the City court to-day with violating the city ordinance which forbids the killing of pigs within the city. Fleischer, who appeared for Fleischer and introduced evidence showing that the city slaughter house was not as well equipped as it should be, was found not guilty. The ordinance was defective and could not see that Fleischer was much to blame since conditions were such that men were forced to slaughter their pigs in places other than the proper place. The case was nolleed upon payment of costs.

SWEDEN FEELING GRIP OF STRIKE

Calling Out Printers and Railroad Employees Follows Tie-up of Shipping

TRAFFIC AT A STANDSTILL

(Special from United Press.) Stockholm, Aug. 5.—Sweden began to feel the paralyzing grip of the strike to-day when the railroad union joined the strikers. Already shipping is seriously affected and by to-night when every member of the union will probably be out, a complete tie-up of shipping in Swedish waters will result. Another alarming feature developed to-day in the decision of the strike committee to call out all printers and railroad employees. The railroad men had previously decided not to strike but it is not known what response they will make to the committee's demand. The printers will undoubtedly obey the order and all newspapers will have to suspend.

The traffic is at a standstill in the city as few street cars and cabs are running. The employees in both lines having joined the strike. There is every indication to-day that the strike committee will succeed in its endeavors to make the strike general and within the next 48 hours it is said that the great industrial activities of the city will be suspended.

ROOSEVELT COULD SHOOT FLIES AT SHORT BEACH

Mrs. Ella Wheeler Wilcox, Poetess of Passion, Testifies Humorously of Her Sufferings.

New Haven, Aug. 5.—Mrs. Ella Wheeler Wilcox, the muse of Granite Beach, was the star witness in the Short Beach auto injunction hearing before Judge Williams in the Superior court Wednesday afternoon, and enlivened the drawn-out session by her repartee during her examination on the witness stand. Mrs. Wilcox has had a bad time of it this summer, according to her testimony. She said:

"My experience began on June 22, because I had been away from the 18th to the 21st, and I especially remember our coming home, that I was extremely annoyed and very much humiliated because I had brought a guest with me, and I had to apologize greatly; and from that time on it has been a series of humiliations. I have been missed being annoying and offensive and almost intolerable once in 48 hours at least. I have suffered extremely from insomnia for the first time in my life. I have always been able to sleep eight hours out of the 24 until this summer."

"I have never had so much sleep as I have now, which is a new experience to me. I have been especially annoyed by the flies, in addition to the heat and the insomnia. The flies have been so enormous, so numerous and so aggressive that it seemed foolish for President Roosevelt to be so concerned about them. The flies have been so enormous, so numerous and so aggressive that it seemed foolish for President Roosevelt to be so concerned about them."

The bathing has been interfered with so we have scarcely any pleasure connected with it. This morning there was a scum an inch thick all over the little beach where I bathe. I walked down the beach and I went half the distance down there in front of all the cottages. I could not find a single fly. I had no one could think of approaching if they desired any pleasure in bathing."

"When was the last time you smiled this nauseating odor?"
A. I make a habit of never keeping any exact dates except of the pleasant things in life. I have always been a philosopher, so I have no exact dates; but last Saturday was very disagreeable. I recall that I was very angry, but that covers the ground very well."

Attorney Goodhart did not cross-examine Mrs. Wilcox.
Bishop Goodsell also testified about the odor.

DOG OWNER MUST PAY HIS LICENSE

Michael Martinino was arrested last night on warrant charging him with keeping an unlicensed dog. He was allowed to go today when he promised that he would pay $6.25 due the city as a license. There are 3,500 licensed dogs in the city at present. Thomas Kelly, dog catcher, has been busy since January killing no less than 700 tramp dogs.

Deaths and Funerals.

Minnie L. daughter of George H. and Minnie M. Taylor, died last evening at the home of her parents, 123 State street, after a short illness. The deceased was but 15 years of age and beloved by all who knew her.
James C. son of James and Della Langford, died this morning at the home of his parents, 52 Organ street, after an illness of but a few days, of infantile troubles. The child was 14 months old.
Funeral services over the remains of Elizabeth, widow of Leonard Farrington, were held this afternoon from her late residence, 1633 Barnum avenue, at 1:45 o'clock, and thence to Trinity church, where services were conducted by Rev. Mr. LaField. Interment was in Park cemetery.

The Weather—Clearing this afternoon; fair tonight and tomorrow.

Colonial draperies of small cost.

True art, rich colors, low cost; all three are combined in the colonial drapery stuffs here told of.

The designs are individual; seem to fairly breathe the spirit of days of long ago.

The colors are rich and are combined with designs that are clear and sharp.

The fabric is of such a texture that it drapes gracefully and lends itself to decoration of small windows as well as nooks and niches.

Some of the patterns are particularly good for use on dresser covers, for making up into couch pillows, and other similar things.

18c to 25c a yard—and with the appearance of being worth not less than double.

Seaweed pillows.

For use in the launch or upon the veranda, for service in the hammock or to bolster one up on a summer couch, here are some odd pillows.

They are made of stout awning duck and filled with dried seaweed. They are soft yet firm and they have just that tangy odor of the salt old ocean that is delightful. 50 cents.

Columbia records.

The new records are here as soon as issued, both disc and cylinder. Just out in both styles is the popular song "My Wife's Gone to the Country, Hurrah! Hurrah!"

Ten inch disc,—65c. Indestructible cylinder,—35c.

Friends Come to Cunningham's Aid

Algonquin Club's Bartender Secures Bond to Insure Support of Wife.

After spending three days in the city jail waiting for a bondsman to come to his rescue, John Cunningham a bartender at the Algonquin club was saved the fate of remaining a prisoner for a period of four months by his wife who obtained the $250 needed to secure his release. Just who the persons are that came to Cunningham's release the officials would not discuss to-day. At any rate Cunningham is released and it is supposed that he is back at his post behind the Algonquin club's bar.

Cunningham was arraigned Monday on a charge of non-support preferred by his wife, Judge Foster after hearing the case and finding that Cunningham had pay his wife eight dollars a week for six months and doubting the prisoners good faith held him bound to post a bond to insure his payment. Being unable to post that amount as a guarantee of his good faith, Cunningham was forced to languish in jail until the sum was raised for him.

Fatal Pitched Battle Between Posse and Robber

(Special from United Press.) St. Paul, Aug. 5.—Two men are dead, another is dying and three others are badly wounded in a pitched battle between a posse and a desperado at White Bear Lake this morning. The robber, Henry Paul, was killed at 11:10, after killing Ed Larson, fatally wounding William J. Butler and injuring two others.

The robber held up the First State Bank at White Bear, securing $500 from the safe.

CHARGED WITH ASSAULT.

James E. Brown, charged with assaulting Edward Gelson, an aged colored man, was fined $50 and costs by Judge Foster in the City court today.

GOVERNOR MAY VETO SUNDAY LAW

(Special from United Press.) Hartford, Aug. 5.—Legislative leaders were startled this morning to learn that Governor Woodcock was planning to veto the Sunday law which passed the House yesterday.

STATE DRUMMERS PARADE IN NAUGATUCK.

(Special from United Press.) Naugatuck, Aug. 5.—Despite the drizzling rain 350 members of the Connecticut Elfers and Drummers Association paraded here today in connection with their 24th annual meeting.

FASHIONS AND FADS

Glove-fitting bodies are predicted. The better fashion is at hand again. Children once more wear the pinafores.

Orange is among the most popular colors. Low shoes are ornamented with big buckles. Shaded silk hosiery has something of a vogue.

Much black velvet is being used in making hats. The flower hat is now the rival of the peachblossom. There is a fad for inset lace medallions and brooches. Braided and embroidered cotton sou-tache buttons prevail.

Jet and bead fringes are much used on the smartest gowns. Muslim evening frocks are touched with metallic trimmings. New Paris hats are all large and show divergent trimmings.

The Directoire tunic of real lace is new and exceedingly pretty. Lace monograms appear on some of the most fashionable stockings. Washable chambray gloves are shown both in natural color and white.

Black velvet hold fast buttons have cutrun them in the race for first place. Net gloves, the coolest things that can be worn, may now be had with embroidered backs.

The Directoire tie, made of crocheted lace, is a pretty finish to the dressy blouse. There is a rage now for cream white suits, worn with hat and accessories of nut brown.

Gray suede boots with pearl buttons are attractively worn with gray walking suits. White ties in some of the latest fashions are seen in some of the latest fashions. The Directoire tunic of real lace is new and exceedingly pretty.
